Objectives

- Learn how to appropriately use modals
- Identify the usages of modals

Spanish Overview

Una oración requiere un verbo conjugado.

El verbo se conjuga o transforma para expresar persona, número, tiempo y modo.

Estos cuatro elementos se conocen como los accidentes gramaticales.

Ella comió (comer) en El Grifo el viernes pasado.

Si me das pon, iría (ir) al cine.

Ambos verbos difieren en el modo. El primero expresa certeza, mientras que el segundo, potencialidad.

Spanish Overview

El modo expresa la certidumbre de la acción.

Una situación puede ser concreta o posible.

acciones o situaciones
hipotéticas

Puede que camine hasta el Viejo San Juan.

preguntas en tono de cortesía

¿Me acompañarías a la presentación del libro?

deseos

Me gustaría ir al río.

Spanish Overview

La potencialidad de una situación se expresa con las siguientes terminaciones:

hablar
yo	hablaría	nosotros	hablaríamos
tú	hablarías	ustedes	hablarían
él/ella	hablaría	ellos/ellas	hablarían

También se introducen con expresiones como:

- Puede que
- Debería (de)
- Que
- Quizás

In English, however, it is expressed through modals.

Me gustaría ir al río.

I would like to go to the river.

What are modals?

Modals are used with the main verb of a sentence to express ability, possibility, permission or obligation.

The main verb—which is in the base form—expresses the action.

To obtain the base of a verb, eliminate to in the infinitive form. Ex.: to go → go

Each modal alters the base verb.

I can go to the workshop on English grammar.

Puedo ir.

I might go to the workshop on English grammar.

Podría ir/Puede que vaya/Quizás vaya.

I should go to the workshop on English grammar.

Debería ir.

Modals in Sentences

Affirmative Sentence: Subject + Modal + Main Verb (+ Predicate).

You should go if you have the time.
