TENURE-TRACK FACULTY POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT

The English Department of the College of General Studies at the University of Puerto Rico, Río Piedras Campus, seeks to fill a tenure-track position for the academic year 2024-2025.

Requirements and Preparation:

- Doctorate in TESOL, ESL/EFL, English Education, Bilingual Education, Curriculum/Teaching, American Studies, Composition/Writing, Anglophone Literature (British or American), or Comparative Literature from an accredited university.
- Primary field of experience must be in TESOL, ESL/EFL, or Bilingual Education.
- Additional experience in literature and/or composition/writing is preferred.
- The candidate must demonstrate teaching experience in the preparation of face-to-face and distance courses on the acquisition and development of English for university students.
- Teaching experience at the university level, ability to conduct research in the specialty area, and commitment to teaching excellence.
- Experience in educational technology.
- Fluency in English and Spanish.
- Experience with diverse student populations, and commitment to teaching first-year students in college English language acquisition and English composition courses.
- Candidates must have teaching experience in TESOL-ESL/EFL, English Education, Bilingual Education, Curriculum/Teaching, American Studies, Composition/Writing, Anglophone Literature (British or American), or Comparative Literature at an accredited university.
- Demonstrate knowledge of Interdisciplinary and General Education.
- Candidates must have recent publications within the last five years.
- Other requirements are to demonstrate your commitment to research or production of creative work, publication and dissemination of knowledge; experience in higher education; training in teaching different modalities (in-person, hybrid or online) effectively; commitment to innovative and contemporary curriculum development; professional experience developing funding proposals; commitment to seeking external funds; and evidence of professional certifications.

Responsibilities: The selected candidate will teach English classes at the undergraduate level during the day, at night and on Saturdays, through different modalities such as in-person, hybrid and online. While teaching assignments will focus on English acquisition and development courses in an ESL/EFL environment, the candidate must also have the potential to teach courses in different programs and departments of the Faculty of General Studies and collaborate with integration efforts between disciplines. The candidate must publish articles in peer-reviewed journals in the area of specialization and/or in the area of teaching and learning; write proposals to obtain external funds; and actively participate in department, faculty, and university committees and activities. Additionally, the candidate must comply with all the teaching requirements and responsibilities established in the General Regulations of the University of Puerto Rico.

The deadline to submit the required documents, in English, is January 16, 2024. The review of the documents begins immediately. Applicants must submit paper and digital copies of: 1) Cover letter/letter of interest or application; 2) Updated Curriculum Vitae; 3) Official copy of credit transcript for all academic degrees; 4) Three recent letters of recommendation from previous or current employers and supervisors; 5) Copies of titles and certificates; 6) Copies or digital evidence of recent research, publications, article presentations, workshops, seminars and projects, creative works; 7) Summary of the doctoral thesis; and 8) Declaration of your educational philosophy to:
